Summary

I am excited to share that this month, in January, I am in the final stages of completing an intensive frontend development bootcamp. This experience has been a journey of growth, allowing me to refresh and update the knowledge I gained during my university studies several years ago. The bootcamp has provided me with the latest tools and technologies in frontend development, preparing me for the next phase of my career.

I am incredibly enthusiastic about putting my acquired knowledge to the test in real-world scenarios and continuing to elevate my skills.
